

Arabic Online

A comprehensive electronic program for teaching Arabic to non native speakers

Introduction

Language is not seen merely as a means of communication but a way to create bonds between nations and individuals and the means of broadening people's horizons. Language learning encourages tolerance and peaceful co-existence among people and by extension nations. The Arabic language is considered to be one of the fastest growing languages in the world. As many as over 422 million people around the world speak Arabic, making it the sixth most spoken language. It is also the official or co-official language of 22 countries around the world. Also, Arabic is the spiritual language of over 1.5 billion people around the world who use it in their daily prayers and worship, as the Quran is indispensable in the spiritual life of a Muslim. Arabic is also one of the six official languages of the United Nations and one of its major organizations, UNESCO, celebrates the Arabic language every year in December.

Given the growing demand for learning the Arabic language among non-native speakers and the need to create closer cultural understanding and appreciation of other cultures, it was imperative to design a comprehensive language program that promotes the dissemination of the Arab and Islamic culture.

To meet the above challenges, The Saudi Electronic University created a unique comprehensive language learning program named Arabic Online in 2015. After three years, the program went through a review and modernization that resulted in the content being moved to Blackboard. The initiative was intended to make the program one of a kind that offers language learning anytime and anywhere in the world and also fosters universal values of diversity, acceptance of others, promotion of peace and coexistence.
